It is so weird. Since I've become president, I see "Rotary" everywhere.

I briefly noted an interview of Archbishop Desmond Tutu in Vanity Fair this month. He referred to the movie, "The Defiant Ones." Two escaped convicts are handcuffed together. It soon became clear that to make it to freedom they had to do it together. "I need you to be all of who you are in order for me to be all that I am." You can't be human in isolation—only in relationships.

There's that old idea of interconnectedness again. It's all there in our motto, "Service Above Self."

I feel a good year coming on. See you Friday. Bring a friend.

P.S. It was really terrific to see how many of you were willing to step up and sign up for some days to welcome and help out with Zuzka!
